Sociology 119S
Organizational Strategy and Design: A Sociological Perspective
Department of Sociology, UC-Berkeley

Department description: Organizations face a rapidly changing external environment that make sustaining a competitive advantage and success more tenuous. Firms that were successful last year may no longer be as successful. This course uses a sociological lens to examine how organizational strategy and design influence organizational success. We begin with a brief overview of business strategy and sociological concepts to set a background for more in depth readings and discussion on different key themes in business strategy. Classic and contemporary theories will be reviewed. Some of the topics that we will cover include: the internal and external context of organizations, developing a competitive advantage, why firms are similar, why firms are different, alignment of organizational design with strategy, organizational ambidexterity, blue ocean strategy, and organizational status and reputation.

Why are some firms more successful than others? Why do some firms compete successfully and then lose their competitive edge? This course examines these questions by examining selected sociological and business strategy perspectives. Therefore, business strategy and sociology perspectives are juxtaposed throughout the course to deepen our analysis of the field to show how sociology and business strategy have both contributed to the field. The course presents some ‘classic’ perspectives (e.g. Porter, Carroll, DiMaggio and Powell) and also includes more current perspectives (i.e., blue ocean strategy, ambidextrous organizations, optimal distinctiveness).

Note: The readings for this course are primarily academic journal articles.

Required Reading

1) A Reader will made available at University Copy Service, 2425 Channing Way (West of Telegraph, two blocks South of corner of Telegraph and Bancroft) during the second week of classes, phone: 510-549-2335. (Hours: 8:30 AM to 7:00 PM (M-F), 11:00 AM – 5:00 PM (Saturday), Closed on Sunday. I will also place two copies of the Reader on reserve at Moffitt Library.

2) Web addresses are noted in the schedule for articles available online.

3) At times I may post additional or replacement articles to bcourses.
Suggested Reading
Since this is a course on strategy and organization design, staying current with business practices and events through the Wall Street Journal, New York Times, SF Chronicle (Business Section), and other business periodicals (Fortune, Forbes, Businessweek, etc.), will facilitate your grasp of the material in this course.

Course Inquiries
If you have any questions or concerns about the course, please feel free to contact me during my office hours (Monday, 3-4:45 PM) or send me an email (sflatt@berkeley.edu). If you cannot meet me during my office hours, please contact me to arrange a phone meeting.

Bonus: Class Participation (up to) 5% 10

In-class group Exercises: There will also be small group exercises at selected sessions for you to work through a problem. Your group will receive points as a group for participation and satisfactory completion of the exercise/problem.

Three (3) Essays and one (1) short Reflection/Application Essay: A response to question or questions (posted at least one week before it is due) about assigned readings and class discussions. Higher scores will go to those who are able to respond to the question(s) by using the readings and class discussions to support your essay. There are three (3) essays. Format for essays are 3-4 pages, double-spaced, one inch margins, Times New Roman and 12 font. Appropriate citations with references are expected; the list of references on the last page does not count towards your 4 page limit. The Reflection/Application Essay will be in lieu of a midterm or quiz. A thoughtful, well organized and focused essay is expected. These essays are due at the beginning of the class (hard copy, however online submissions may also be requested as well). No essays will be accepted after the due date without prior approval. Exceeding the page limit may lead to point deductions. The prompt/question(s) will be posted to bcourses.s

Note: I will hold special sessions before a paper is due to provide additional support and answer questions. Day and time will be announced.

Class Participation: Your participation in class is important as contributions to class discussions. Come prepared to respond to questions and/or raises questions. Your engagement with the course material enhances learning and this is an opportunity to earn bonus points for the course.
Attendance: Your presence in class reflects your commitment to the course and will facilitate your grasp of the course material. Missing more than two sessions (excused or unexcused) could negatively impact your overall grade. Please contact me if you will be missing classes due to sport commitments or extended illnesses.

Listed below is the UC Berkeley, Honor Code (www.asuc.org/honorcode/)
The student community at UC Berkeley has adopted the following Honor Code:

“As a member of the UC Berkeley community, I act with honesty, integrity, and respect for others.” The hope and expectation is that you will adhere to this code.

Collaboration and Independence: Reviewing lecture and reading materials and studying for exams can be enjoyable and enriching things to do with fellow students. This is recommended. However, unless otherwise instructed, homework assignments are to be completed independently and materials submitted as homework should be the result of one’s own independent work.

Cheating: A good lifetime strategy is always to act in such a way that no one would ever imagine that you would even consider cheating. Anyone caught cheating on a quiz or exam in this course will receive a failing grade in the course and will also be reported to the University Center for Student Conduct. In order to guarantee that you are not suspected of cheating, please keep your eyes on your own materials and do not converse with others during the quizzes and exams.

Plagiarism: To copy text or ideas from another source without appropriate reference is plagiarism and will result in a failing grade for your assignment and usually further disciplinary action. For additional information on plagiarism and how to avoid it, see, for example: http://gsi.berkeley.edu/teachingguide/misconduct/prevent-plag.html

Academic Integrity and Ethics: Cheating on exams and plagiarism are two common examples of dishonest, unethical behavior. Honesty and integrity are of great importance in all facets of life. They help to build a sense of self-confidence, and are key to building trust within relationships, whether personal or professional. There is no tolerance for dishonesty in the academic world, for it undermines what we are dedicated to doing – furthering knowledge for the benefit of humanity.

Your experience as a student at UC Berkeley is hopefully fueled by passion for learning and replete with fulfilling activities. And we also appreciate that being a student may be stressful. There may be times when there is temptation to engage in some kind of cheating in order to improve a grade or otherwise advance your career. This could be as blatant as having someone else sit for you in an exam, or submitting a written assignment that has been copied from another source. And it could be as subtle as glancing at a fellow student’s exam when you are unsure of an answer to a question and are looking for some confirmation. One might do any of these things and potentially not get caught. However, if you cheat, no matter how much you may have learned in this class, you have failed to learn perhaps the most important lesson of all.
