Sociologists have always been inspired by the need to make sense of the world around them. This course provides students with an introduction to the field of political sociology through engagement with major contemporary developments.

The course focuses upon two specific cases: the Global Economic Crisis and the “War on Terror.” Each case provides us with an empirical entry point into the field of political sociology. In pursuing questions related to these contemporary developments, students will be introduced to a variety of concepts, theories and debates that are central to the field. In particular, we will focus on one of the main concepts of political sociology – the state.

Part I of the course introduces the case of the Global Economic Crisis that spread throughout the world in 2008. This provides an opportunity to engage with a long tradition of Marxist scholarship that seeks to understand the relationship between state and economy (Engels, Lenin, Wolff, Block and Harvey). In doing so, we will grapple with a range of issues (the relation between state and capital; the political and economic power of the “ruling class”; the role of the state in mediating or exacerbating the crises of capitalism) that we can then apply towards understanding the Global Economic Crisis.

While Marxists have generally approached the state in terms of its ends or economic objectives, Weberian scholars focus upon the means of state power (violence, war-making, state-making, prerogative power). Part II of the course will explore the case of the US’ “War on Terror” through the lens of this scholarship. These readings raise a series of questions that we will then apply towards understanding the “War on Terror”: What is the relationship between states and violence? How do states monopolize the power to classify certain forms of violence as “(il)legitimate”? (Weber) How is war-making central to processes of state-making? (Tilly) What are the various forms of state power and how are they intrinsically gendered? (Brown)

Finally, we conclude in Part III by turning to Foucauldian scholars who reject “state centered” approaches, focusing instead upon the exercise of technologies of power.” What technologies of power are being deployed in the “War on Terror”? We focus particularly upon surveillance practices, contextualizing them within a long history of efforts to govern race and class relations in the US. (Parenti & Guzik)

40% Final Exam on Parts 2 & 3 (Due 8/10)

ATTENDANCE:

Class attendance is mandatory and lectures are structured to maximize student participation. Being present and actively participating in class is central to the learning process. Attendance will be taken at every class meeting and it is students’ responsibility to make sure that they have signed the attendance sheet. If you are present in class and for some reason fail to sign the attendance sheet, you are required to notify me of this via email within 24 hours.
Students are allotted 2 absences without penalty. This allotment is intended to account for all illnesses and any family and personal matters, as well as to relieve me of the enormous administrative work of dealing with absence requests on an individual basis. Please do not email to notify me of or explain absences – the absence allotment is intended to accommodate for any/all reasons for missing class. Exceptions/accommodations to the attendance policy will only be made in situations of serious extended illness or severe crises, and require submitting the relevant documentation as well as a meeting with me to discuss the situation.

Class begins promptly at 10 minutes after the scheduled hour. Please be present on time as late arrivals disrupt the class. Students are expected to remain in the classroom until the conclusion of the lecture. Students should never leave class early without discussing this with me beforehand.

REQUIRED READINGS:

Our primary work as sociologists involves reading – this course requires extensive and careful reading. The assignments listed for each class meeting are to be read prior to that scheduled class. The expectation is that students allocate the necessary time to undertake a thorough and careful reading. The examinations for this course consist of take-home essays which students will have a limited time to complete. Thus highlighting, underlining and notetaking throughout the semester will prove highly beneficial for these exams.

All readings listed on the syllabus are included in the course reader, available at Replica Digital Ink (510 549-9991) at 2138 Oxford Street (by the Center Street entrance to campus near the Downtown Berkeley BART station], around the corner from Starbucks). Course readings are also available on bCourses.

Whether you choose to purchase the course reader or utilize the digital copies on Bcourses, you are expected to bring the assigned readings to every class meeting (as we will be doing extensive readings of the texts together in class).

READING GUIDES:

Included in the course reader (and available on bCourses) are reading guides for most of the assigned readings. You should always refer to the reading guides before beginning the assigned readings as they are intended to make the process easier (especially for the more difficult theoretical texts). Utilizing these guides will enable you to focus on the most important issues and help clarify your reading. Paying careful attention to the questions/issues/concepts listed in the guides is crucial for doing well on the pop quizzes.

POP QUIZZES:

To ensure that students keep up with reading assignments, 6 pop quizzes will be given throughout the course at unannounced times. The quizzes will be quick and short and will assess basic comprehension of the assigned readings. You don’t have to fully understand the readings to do well on the quizzes (we will make full sense of them together in class), but they do require that you read the assigned texts fully and carefully. They also require that you pay careful attention to the reading guides provided.

Out of the 6 pop quizzes given, only 4 will count towards the final grade. This accommodates for any students who miss pop quizzes due to absences (there are no make-ups for pop-quizzes). For students who are present and complete more than the required 4 pop quizzes, the lowest grades will be dropped. Given that this policy enables students to miss 1/3 of the total pop quizzes, no further accommodations or exceptions will be made. I have purposely set this generous allotment for missed quizzes to accommodate for any/all situations and thus to relieve myself of the extensive work of dealing with individual requests for accommodations.

EXAMS:

The midterm and final for this course will be take-home examinations that consist of short essays that assess students’ mastery of the course materials. Essays will be geared towards asking students to synthesize the scholarship covered in each part of the course, and to apply relevant concepts and theories to our empirical cases. The distribution and due dates for the exams are listed on this syllabus. Students are expected to be aware of these dates and to schedule and prepare accordingly. Please do not contact me with requests to change due dates because of other academic obligations. Late submissions will result in a grade penalty.

SPECIAL ACCOMMODATIONS:

Please notify me immediately if you require any special accommodations for the course. If you are registered with the DSP program, please ensure that your authorization letter is forwarded to me at the beginning of the semester. If you wish to utilize any accommodations for this course, please schedule a meeting with me so we can discuss this. Students who wish to utilize DSP accommodations for the midterm or final exams are required to contact me about this well in advance.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY:

All written work must be your own. Any words, or even ideas, drawn from another source (even if paraphrased) must be appropriately cited.
