COURSE DESCRIPTION

The Sociology of Culture is a broad field of study encompassing every aspect of our lives, not just those things we typically think of like music and art, but also our clothes, food, furniture, language, ideologies, technology, gestures, and symbols; culture is all things created by humans. Culture is what give our lives shape, allows us to predict social action, informs our behavior and patterns of thought, and gives our lives meaning.

In this course we will focus on a few key areas in the sociology of culture:
❖ Cultural production
❖ Cultural reception/consumption
❖ Issues of power, hegemony, and inequality
❖ Identity formation through cultural processes

Some questions about culture that will be addressed in this course are:
❖ How is culture created both by culture industries and by individuals?
❖ How is culture consumed?
❖ What is the relationship between the intended message of media creations and how people actually interpret and use them?
❖ How is power and inequality reproduced through culture?
❖ What is the importance of cultural products and subcultures to identity formation?

An example of what we will study in this course:

We tend to think of certain musicians and musical genres as having more or less "authenticity." This authenticity is typically seen as coming from the performer; they hail from a particular background, they write from the heart, etc. But notions of authenticity are also constructed by the cultural industries including producers, reviewers, record companies, and others. We will explore the importance of these culture industries in constructing genres like country music and blues, and why some performers are deemed more authentic than others as well as audience desire for an authentic experience.
This class will be challenging on a number of levels:

- You are expected to keep up with a number of readings for each class meeting.
- These readings will be challenging not only in terms of their length and number, but also in terms of the subject matter presented and the complex theories proposed.
- We will be speaking frankly about issues of gender, race, class and sexuality.

REQUIRED TEXTS

Readings on bSpace

ASSIGNMENTS

Reading Responses: You will complete 4 response papers throughout the semester. Each is worth 10% of your final grade. Due dates are listed in the course outline. I will upload response paper prompts one week prior to the due date. No late responses are accepted without prior approval by the instructor.

These reading responses will test your comprehension of course readings as well as your ability to explain, synthesize, and make connections between the readings in your own words. Because you will not be able to rely on direct quotations of the material, you must focus on your own understanding and articulation of the texts.

Exams: You will take three exams consisting of short answer and essay questions. You will be responsible for course readings, lectures, and any media presented in the class. Each is worth 20% of your final grade.

GRADE BREAKDOWN

Response Papers: 40%

Exams: 60%
COURSE FORMAT AND POLICIES

Readings: Readings should be completed prior to class. You must keep up with the readings to participate in class discussions and complete assignments. Bring your reading materials to every class; you will likely need to refer to them in class discussions. All of your assigned readings (aside from the required books) are available on bSpace. Be sure to download them early.

Participation: This class will incorporate the use of lecture, films, music, visuals, and group discussions. I expect you to be an active participant in the course. Bring your questions and comments to class and don’t be shy about bringing them up.

I like to start class with a short discussion of topical cultural issues that you have come across. If you see a movie, listen to a song, overhear a conversation, or witness an interaction that ties into issues we have been discussing, please share this with the class!

You can also participate by posting links to news stories or videos, as well as any relevant thoughts on issues related to culture in the chat room on bSpace. Be sure to contextualize any posts by connecting them to issues in the class.

If you have a question about the readings, lecture, etc., please post your question to the chat room on bSpace where both your questions and my answers will be visible to other students, rather than e-mailing me. Feel free to answer each other’s questions as well.

If you miss a class, do not ask me if you missed anything. Of course you did!–but don’t expect me to fill you in. I suggest sharing contact information with a classmate early on in the semester and getting the notes you missed.

Do not read newspapers, listen to music, browse the Internet, text, or sleep during class. If you want to do these things, don’t bother coming to class.

You may not agree with everything we read and discuss, but I expect you to have an open mind and demonstrate your knowledge of the sociological perspective. Debates are expected and welcome in this class, however, I will not tolerate personal attacks.

GRADING POLICIES

For assignments turned in via bSpace, your feedback can be found in a file there. Be sure to download this file and carefully consider the feedback. This feedback is provided to help you improve on future assignments.

If you would like to request a re-grade or re-evaluation of an assignment, you must first, wait 24 hours after the assignment was returned and second, write up a statement detailing why you believe you deserve a higher grade. This statement should be about the substance of your work, not about effort. My assessment and grade of your work will be used, even if that means you get a lower score than originally given for that work.
Grades are not given based on “need.” If you need a particular grade in this course it is your responsibility to earn that grade.

ACADEMIC DISHONESTY

Academic dishonesty includes cheating and plagiarism. Cheating is collaboration with other students on response papers or on exams or using notes during exams. Plagiarism includes turning in any work that is not your own as well as improper or missing citations of others’ works. As a student of the University of California, you are bound by the Code of Academic Conduct. Any cases of cheating or plagiarism will result in a referral to The Center for Student Conduct and a zero for that assignment.

Plagiarism is most likely to occur because students are unaware of how to cite their sources or because they feel desperate. If you get to this point in your writing, contact me ASAP rather than doing something you'll very likely regret.

OFFICE HOURS

I will be holding office hours from 12-1pm on Mondays and Fridays and by appointment.

If you are having any difficulties with the material or assignments for the course or if you are having any personal problems that are affecting your ability to complete assignments on time, you should take advantage of office hours early in the semester. I will be much more amenable to granting extensions when I have been made aware of problems early on rather than at the last minute.

Remember that office hours are an important resource if for no other reason than getting to know your instructors could help you in the future when you may need letters of recommendation.

SPECIAL NEEDS

Disability Accommodations

Please let me know early in the semester if you qualify for any disability accommodations.
