                2050 Valley LSB

COURSE DESCRIPTION
This class will cover some of the fundamental theories, concepts, and methodologies of sociology. You will learn what it means to have a sociological imagination. Once you complete this course, you will have the basic tools you will need to further your sociological training and to evaluate and analyze the social world.

Questions we will explore in the course:
● What is the sociological perspective?
● What unique insights do sociological theories provide?
● How do sociologists study the social world?
● How can a sociological perspective help people make sense of their own lives?
● How can sociology be used as a tool to improve our world?

Sociology is the study of human social activity, organization, and interaction. Sociology is about the search for patterned behavior and social, rather than individual, explanations for this behavior. Sociologists look beyond the taken-for-granted notions of our social environment to examine the many layers of social meaning in the human experience.

Sociologists approach any study of the social world with the understanding that human behavior is not simply the outcome of individual free will. We are powerfully shaped by the social and historical context in which we live. Further, sociologists study social structures, institutions, division of power and resources, and social relations as outcomes of human action, not simply as natural or inevitable. Because these arrangements are created and sustained by us, they can be changed by us.

Sociology provides a unique framework for understanding the social world. Thus, in this class we will not only study sociological concepts and theories, we will be looking at real-world applications of sociology. We will apply what you have learned: how the self is social; the social construction of gender, race, and sexuality; the reproduction of inequality; and the role of culture and media in our lives to Peggy Orenstein’s book, Cinderella Ate My Daughter in order to understand the consequences of “girlie-girl culture.”

ASSIGNMENTS

Reading Responses: You will complete three 2-3 page reading responses. Each is worth 10% of your final grade. Due dates are listed in the course outline. I will upload response paper prompts one week prior to the due date. No late responses are accepted without prior approval by the instructor.

These reading responses will test your comprehension of course readings as well as your ability to explain, synthesize, and make connections between the readings in your own words. Because you will not be able to rely on direct quotations of the material, you must focus on your own understanding and articulation of the texts.

Exams: You will take three exams consisting of short answer and essay questions. You will be responsible for course readings, lectures, and any media presented in the class. Each is worth 20% of your final grade.

Participation: Attendance and participation in twice-weekly section is required. In addition to in-class and section participation, you may also participate by posing questions, comments, or links to relevant videos or news stories in the chatroom on bSpace. If you post a link, be sure to contextualize it and make a connection to issues we are studying in the course.

COURSE FORMAT AND POLICIES

Readings: Readings should be completed prior to class. You must keep up with the readings to participate in class discussions. Bring your reading materials to every class; you will likely need to refer to them in class discussions. Assigned readings (aside from the required books) are available on bSpace. Be sure to download them early.

Participation: This class will incorporate the use of lecture, films, music, visuals, and group discussions. I expect you to be an active participant in the course. Bring your questions and comments to class and don’t be shy about bringing them up.

I like to start class with a short discussion of topical cultural issues that you have come across. If you see a movie, listen to a song, overhear a conversation, or witness an interaction that ties into issues we have been discussing, please share this with the class!

You can also participate by posting links to news stories or videos, as well as any relevant thoughts on issues related to culture in the chat room on bSpace. Be sure to contextualize any posts by connecting them to issues in the class.

If you have a question about the readings, lecture, etc., please post your question to the chat room on bSpace where both your questions and my answers will be visible to other students, rather than e-mailing me. Feel free to answer each other’s questions as well.

If you miss a class, do not ask me if you missed anything. Of course you did!--but don’t expect me to fill you in. I suggest sharing contact information with a classmate early on in the semester and getting the notes you missed.

Do not read, listen to music, browse the web, text, or sleep during class. If you want to do these things, don’t bother coming to class.

This course challenges many taken-for-granted assumptions about the social world. Keep in mind that your personal experiences may not match the general sociological insights discussed in the course. This does not negate the insights. Ask yourself why this might be the case. You may not agree with everything we read and discuss, but I expect you to have an open mind and demonstrate your knowledge of the sociological perspective. Disagreements and debates are expected and welcome in this class; however, I will not tolerate personal attacks.

GRADING POLICIES

For assignments turned in via bSpace, your feedback can be found in a file there. Be sure to download this file and carefully consider the feedback. This feedback is provided to help you improve on future assignments.
If you would like to request a re-grade or re-evaluation of an assignment, you must first, wait 24 hours after the assignment was returned and second, write up a statement detailing why you believe you deserve a higher grade. This statement should be about the substance of your work, not about effort. My assessment and grade of your work will be used, even if that means you get a lower score than originally given for that work.

ACADEMIC DISHONESTY

Academic dishonesty includes cheating and plagiarism. Cheating is collaboration with other students on response papers or on exams or using notes during exams. Plagiarism includes turning in any work that is not your own as well as improper or missing citations of others' works. As a student of the University of California, you are bound by the Code of Academic Conduct. Any cases of cheating or plagiarism will result in a referral to The Center for Student Conduct and a zero for that assignment.

Plagiarism is most likely to occur because students are unaware of how to cite their sources or because they feel desperate. If you get to this point in your writing, contact me ASAP rather than doing something you'll very likely regret.

OFFICE HOURS

I will be holding office hours on Wednesdays from 10am to 12pm and by appointment. Sign-up: http://wejoinin.com/sheets/uwkhh

If you are having any difficulties with the material or assignments for the course or if you are having any personal problems that are affecting your ability to complete assignments on time, you should take advantage of office hours immediately. I will be much more amenable to granting extensions when I have been made aware of problems early on rather than at the last minute.

Remember that office hours are an important resource if for no other reason than getting to know your instructors could help you in the future when you may need letters of recommendation.
