COURSE OVERVIEW
This course explores contemporary issues, problems, and controversies in global health through an interdisciplinary and critical perspective. It examines the complex tapestry of social, economic, political, technological, and environmental factors that affect global health. Students will learn about some of the health challenges facing the world today; the methods used to measure health and illness; and the local, national, and transnational institutions working to improve health.

READING ACCESS
You may gain access to all of the readings through bCourse. Readings will be added/changed as the semester progresses based on students' feedbacks, and they will be announced in advance.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS
● Attendance (10%)
Attending all seminars is mandatory. You have one unexcused absence. Supporting documentation and prior notification for unavoidable reasons, such as health and family emergencies, along with a clear explanation, are needed for excused absences.

● Participation (20%)
Participation includes thoughtfully contributing to class discussions, and asking pertinent questions. You are required to make at least one comment/post one question per section.

- Reading Questions (20%)
  Every week you will post three questions/comments on the week’s readings on bCourse. They are due on 5 pm on Tue before class. For those questions/comments, you could (1) focus on the arguments and illustration of the readings for the week; or (2) evaluate those arguments, and/or compare and contrast the readings with readings in other weeks.

  No late response is accepted. I will not grade your individual response. But you can expect me to call on you occasionally in class to share what you write.

- Leading Discussion (10%)
  You will lead one class discussion on one reading this semester. Discussion leaders will read the readings very carefully, then come up with discussion questions for our class together. As discussion leaders, you will be exempted from submitting reading questions of that week. Instead, you will send those discussion questions to me through bCourse on Tue by 5 pm.

- Final Project (40%)
  In teams of 2 people, you will research, prepare and deliver a literature review essay on a topic related to the class. You will have to get together in groups and prepare outside of class.

  The project is divided into four components.

  (1) Pick a paper topic (5%): Each team is required to sign up for a meeting with Prof. Long during her office hour to discuss your proposed topic and research question.
  (2) Oral Exam/Final Paper (35%): You could choose to take an oral exam which is a 15-min presentation followed by Q&A or a 30-40 page essay paper (12 point font, double-spaced, 1 inch margins). It should not only summarize and critically evaluate the state of the literature, but also suggest further research directions you would like to see.

COURSE POLICIES

- Technology
  You may use laptops or tablets, but not telephones (outside of emergencies), in class. As an adult, I trust you will use technology respectfully, i.e. only for things related to class while in class. I prefer you have the readings on paper.

- Communication
  Inbox on bCourse only. Please do your best to limit e-mails to administrative questions, and check the syllabus and my instructions to the class before e-mailing me. Save substantive questions for office hours.

OTHER RESOURCES

All students — regardless of background or identity — may experience a range of issues that can become barriers to learning. These issues include, but are not limited to, strained relationships, anxiety, depression, alcohol and other drug problems, difficulties with concentration, sleep, and eating, and/or lack of motivation. Such mental health concerns can diminish both academic performance and the capacity to participate in daily activities. In the event that you need mental health support, or are concerned about a friend, UC Berkeley offers many services, such as free short-term counseling at University Health Services.

An excellent campus website having links to many resources is: http://recalibrate.berkeley.edu/

Remember that seeking help is a good and courageous thing to do — both for yourself and for those who care about you.
