OFFICIAL COURSE DESCRIPTION:

During the last four decades economic inequality in America has increased rapidly. Yet where most rich democracies use redistributive social policy to mitigate inequality, the United States has done less than any other rich democracy in this regard. In this class, we will examine American policy responses to poverty and inequality and evaluate different theories about why the response has been so weak. We will pay particular attention to the role of public opinion, interest groups, race relations, social movements, and the state in explaining the scope, form, and function of American social welfare provision.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS:

Your final course grade will be based on the following:

Reading Responses: 30%

Midterm: 30%

Final Exam: 40%

Reading Responses: Thirty percent of your final course grade will be based on your average (mean) grade on 5 weekly reading responses. The reading responses should be 1 page long. In the first paragraph, you should, in your own words, summarize the main argument of the reading(s) for the entire week. Use the rest of the response to critically evaluate the readings. You can do this by critiquing the author's methodology or analysis or by comparing and contrasting across different readings (within or across weeks). The reading responses for a given week are due on Tuesday at 2pm. Late responses will not count. Submit all reading responses to the class BCourse page. There are no reading responses for weeks 1, 8 or 14.

You may, if you want, submit more than 5 weekly reading responses. In that case, the average grade will be calculated using only the 5 highest scores.

Midterm Exam: The midterm exam will be worth 30 percent of your final grade. The exam will take place in class on October 11, 2018.

Final Exam: The final exam will be worth 40 percent of your final grade. The exam will take place on December 14, 2018, 7-10pm.

EXPECTATIONS:

Attendance: You are expected to come on time to every lecture. While I post my power point slides after each lecture, the power point slides are not designed to be comprehensive. To do well in this course, you will need to take notes to supplement the information provided on the slides.

Participation: You should come to class having done the reading for the week. I also welcome your participation in class. Over the years, I have noticed that students who participate in class tend to do better in my courses. To further encourage student engagement, I will offer extra credit for students who participate in lecture. Participation includes asking pertinent questions and thoughtfully contributing to classroom discussion.

Academic Integrity: Plagiarism is representing the work of others as your own (including copying other students' work or using Internet resources without proper citation). Those who plagiarize will receive an F. The university might impose other sanctions. For more on academic integrity, please look here: <http://sa.berkeley.edu/conduct/integrity>

COURSE READINGS:

I have prepared a course reader that can be purchased at Copy Central at 2411 Telegraph Ave. Two copies of the reader will also be placed on reserve at Moffitt Library.

Students may also purchase the following REQUIRED book from the University Bookstore.

Kathryn J. Edin and H. Luke Shaefer, 2015, \$2 a Day: Living on Almost Nothing in America (Houghton Mifflin Harcourt)
