Course Description: This course explores contemporary families with a focus on the United States. We will explore expectations around what families are expected to accomplish for society and for individuals, and how well they are meeting them in the context of deep and persistent economic and social inequalities. We begin the course by considering how U.S. families are connected to and influenced by other social structures and have changed over time. We use this historical background to ground explorations into contemporary aspects of family life, such as romantic relationships and commitment, family instability, gender relations, parenthood, and the influence of social policy and state regulation on families that make up the rest of the course material. Throughout the course we pay close attention to socially patterned variations of family experiences across social class, race and gender, and other social categories.

Goals for the course:
By the end of the semester you will be able to:

- Understand family diversity and change from a sociological perspective.
- Understand the challenges facing U.S. families today and how these are socially patterned.
- Demonstrate a breadth of knowledge around specific topics related to families.
- Gain a deeper understanding of how social policy and institutions such as the workplace influence individual behavior and family decision making.
- Gain some experience doing qualitative research.
- Evaluate your past and future family experiences in a more critical and creative way.
Evaluation:

Overview of Assignments and Academic Expectations
Detailed prompts for assignments are on bCourses.

Reading Quizzes: The reading assignments form the backbone of our class. The goals for the quizzes are to incentivize keeping up with the reading as well as provide some benchmark of your comprehension. Quizzes are open-book. There will be 7 quizzes. Each quiz will be released in the quiz section of bCourses after class on Friday when a quiz is scheduled, and due the following Monday before class. The average of your best six quiz scores will be used to calculate your final (cumulative) quiz grade. This means Quiz 7 is optional if you are happy with the cumulative average of the first 6 quizzes.

Each quiz should only take 25 minutes or less to complete if you are reasonably caught up on the reading. As everyone has multiple days to complete the quiz, any DSP accommodations for extended time have already been met with the scheduled due date.

Changing Families Project: Sociology has famously been described as the intersection of biography and history. Putting those things together is exactly what we will do in this first project. The project is made up of two assignments and covers the first six weeks of class material. It asks students to engage with topics around changing family patterns both personally and sociologically. In the first assignment, you will address a prompt that asks you to describe some history for a family (either yours, or a friend’s or classmate’s). The second assignment will be based on the first one, so keep that in mind. In the second assignment, you will provide a sociological analysis of some aspects of the family history and experiences you recorded in the earlier assignment, bringing in class readings and materials to provide context and depth. Detailed prompts for both assignments are on bCourses.

In-Class Exam: We will have an in-class exam on material from weeks 7-10. You can expect a mix of short answer and one or two longer essay prompts. You do not need to bring a green book to the exam. This will be a closed-book exam. No electronic devices are allowed. International students may bring a hard-copy English dictionary if they wish.

Final Project: Young Adults’ Family Plans Qualitative Analysis
For this project, you will become a sociologist. You will collect and analyze interview data that you and other students will gather during the second part of the semester and write up your findings in a research paper. The project consists of three assignments that you will turn in for credit. First, there is the interview write-up/transcript, next is a report on the results of your analysis, and then finally the paper itself. The paper will be graded according to a traditional letter grade scale.
but the interview/write-up and analysis report will be “contract based” (i.e., you will get full credit if you follow instructions and make a good effort). Detailed instructions for this project are posted on bCourses.

Readings: Much of the work of this class consists of keeping up with the class readings. All readings will be available to you through bCourses. The best way to access the readings is by going to “Pages” and selecting the page for the appropriate week. You can also access readings by clicking “Files” > “Readings” and then the folder for the week, but please note that bCourses by default will list the readings in alphabetical order here, which may not be the same order in which we will cover them in class.

For any given week, please read in the order listed on the syllabus. Readings are assigned for the week, rather than by the day, to allow for more flexibility in the class. That said, we will generally consider them sequentially. In general, try to complete the first reading before Monday’s class, and everything before Friday.

We are reading two books this semester, in addition to various book chapters and journal articles. All books are available through the UCB library website as e-books (this is the free option) but if you prefer a hard copy, they can be easily purchased via online sources. Order them early so you will have them ready! Please note that these books are not posted on bCourses or included in the bound copy of course readings available for purchase (see below).

Bound hard copies of course readings can be purchased at the Copy Central Store at 2411 Telegraph Ave. While not required, I strongly advise investing in your learning this semester by purchasing one. Numerous studies have shown that we retain material better when we read it offline and handwrite notes. Also, you don’t need internet access or a functioning computer to do the reading and stay caught up! Please note that the two books listed above are NOT included in the volume that is for sale. Both print and digital versions are available.

Attendance: This is an in-person class and consistent attendance is a basic academic expectation. If you are not able, or not planning, to come to class regularly then please drop the class now. To reward students for attendance, we will have periodic random attendance checks for which you will earn extra credit points.
Classes are not recorded so make plans to exchange notes with a classmate in case you are absent. Lecture slides will be posted on bCourses before class.

Grading Policies:

Readers: Graduate student Readers will do the bulk of the grading for this class. We will all work together to make sure the grading is as consistent and equitable as possible. Around the second or third week of the semester, students will be assigned a Reader that will be their primary contact for dealing with administrative matters around DSP extensions, other extension requests and any issues around attendance checks. This same person may grade all or some of your assignments.

Due dates and Grace Period: All assignments will have a due date, as usual. However, in the spirit of offering more flexibility to everyone, there will be a grace period that will extend for 24 hours after the deadline. An assignment turned in after the due date, but before the end of the grace period will not be considered late. The grace period extends to all students—you do not need to ask for permission or notify me if you plan to turn in work during the grace period.

Late Assignments Policy: If you have a personal emergency or are ill, contact your Reader at the earliest opportunity about an extension. Unexcused late assignments will be marked down 5% for each day after the grace period of 24 hours expires. At times, Readers or I may request documentation of an illness, emergency, or other situation.

Academic Accommodations: If you are a DSP student please verify that the DSP office has sent me a copy of your letter. If you have an accommodation for take-home assignments, it is your responsibility to contact your Reader to ask for an extension and work out a timeline. Please bear in mind that accommodations for extra time on in-class exams do not apply to take-home assignments. I will be using the DSP proctoring service for the in-class exam. You can expect to hear from me or your Reader about arrangements for the exam in advance. Reading quizzes are open book and only expected to take 25 minutes or so. Since you have more than two full days to complete each quiz, and control over the environmental conditions for taking the quiz, DSP accommodations for quizzes are met and no further action is needed. You are always welcome to reach out to me to discuss accommodations. Accommodations are also available for the observance of religious holidays, or due to conflicts related to student athletics. Please reach out to me also if you have another issue not “officially” covered and we can talk about it. Here is a link to more information from UCB about academic accommodations and resources: https://evcp.berkeley.edu/programs-resources/academic-accommodations-hub
Grading Scale: Your assignments will be given a numeric score and posted on the grade book in bCourses. At the end of the semester, your scores will be totaled and converted to a letter grade based on the percentage scale below. All assignments together total 1000 points. If you take the course P/NP, you must earn a 70% or above to pass.

Re-grade policy: Please first talk with the Reader who graded your assignment for more feedback. Readers have the authority to change grades if they believe it is warranted. If you believe a mistake was made on your assignment, and want me to review it, write a short statement explaining why you think your assignment deserves a different grade, making sure to reference the assignment rubric. This statement should be about the substance of your work, rather than effort. I will then re-grade your paper and determine the final grade for the assignment. All re-grade requests must be made within a week of when an assignment is handed back. Per University policy, no re-grades are possible for final exams.

Incomplete Grades: Incompletes are an option of last resort for students experiencing true medical or other emergencies that make it impossible for them to complete their coursework on time. To be considered for an incomplete grade, students need to speak with me about it DURING the semester, have completed at least half of the coursework, and provide documentation of the reason for the request.

Academic honesty is expected of all students. It is extremely important that everyone submits their own original work, produced specifically for this course, in order to receive credit. Suspected violations relating to this course will be reported to the office of student conduct and dealt with according to university policies. Be aware of plagiarism. Word for word use of even a single sentence from any author, publication or website without proper citation is plagiarism and is unethical and unacceptable. So is very closely following the structure and wording of another author’s work. In addition, please be aware that you may not turn in any portion of your own previous work submitted for credit in another course without substantial revision. Plagiarism will result in a failing grade on the paper or exam in question with no opportunity to rewrite, as will any other kind of academic dishonesty. If you have questions about how to properly cite materials, or how to paraphrase appropriately, please ask! The student writing center is a good resource for questions about this.

We are in a new era of much controversy and uncertainty about the role and use of artificial intelligence in academic assignments and writing. My position is that any use of AI programs to produce work for this class is another version of plagiarism and will be treated as such.

Turnitin: All of your assignments will be checked for plagiarism by Turnitin. Please be aware that this program keeps a database of work previously turned in for this class by other students, as well as any of your own work that you turned in for credit in a previous class.

University Resources for Students

Your Health and Well-Being: Life as a Berkeley student can be full of excitement and possibilities, but at times may feel overwhelming or be difficult in other ways. Some degree of this is to be expected, but if you are experiencing a lot of distress, anxiety or have a pre-existing mental health issue, there are resources on campus to help. You are not alone; many others share your difficulties. Even if you don’t think you need them, I encourage you to look at these websites now, so you know what is available. There are much more than counseling appointments: there are web tutorials and videos, support groups and mindfulness classes, for example. Counseling center staff have told me these groups and classes can be a great preventative resource and are a great way to get the semester off to a good start. Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS), (510) 642-9494, https://uhs.berkeley.edu/counseling. More general resources on mental health, services are at https://uhs.berkeley.edu/health-topics/mental-health.

Remember that regular exercise, getting enough sleep, healthy eating, getting together with friends in-person to have fun and not spending too much time online/on your phone are important ways to support mental health. (A message from the parent side of me!)
