CLASS MEETING

2050 Valley LSB

COURSE DESCRIPTION
This class will cover some of the fundamental theories, concepts, and methodologies of sociology. You will learn what it means to have a sociological imagination. Once you complete this course, you will have the basic tools you will need to further your sociological training and to evaluate and analyze the social world.

Questions we will explore in the course:
• What is the sociological perspective?
• What unique insights do sociological theories provide?
• How do sociologists study the social world?
• How can a sociological perspective help people make sense of their own lives?
• How can sociology be used as a tool to improve our world?

Sociology is the study of human social activity, organization, and interaction. Sociology is about the search for patterned behavior and social, rather than individual, explanations for this behavior. Sociologists look beyond the taken-for-granted notions of our social environment to examine the many layers of social meaning in the human experience.

Sociologists approach any study of the social world with the understanding that human behavior is not simply the outcome of individual free will. We are powerfully shaped by the social and historical context in which we live. Further, sociologists study social structures, institutions, division of power and resources, and social relations as outcomes of human action, not simply as natural or inevitable. Because these arrangements are created and sustained by us, they can be changed by us.

Sociology provides a unique framework for understanding the social world. Thus, in this class we will not only study sociological concepts and theories, we will be looking at real-world applications of sociology.

ASSIGNMENTS

Reading Responses: You will complete two 3-4 page reading responses. Each is worth 15% of your final grade. Due dates are listed in the course outline. I will upload response paper prompts one week prior to the due date. No late responses are accepted without prior approval by the instructor.

These reading responses will test your comprehension of course readings as well as your ability to explain, synthesize, and make connections between the readings in your own words. Because you will not be able to rely on direct quotations of the material, you must focus on your own understanding and articulation of the texts.

Exams: You will take two exams. You will be responsible for course readings, lectures, and any media presented in the class. The Midterm is worth 25% of your final grade and the Final Exam is worth 35%.

Participation: Attendance and participation in twice-weekly section is required. In addition to in-class and section participation, you may also participate by posing questions, comments, or links to relevant videos or news stories in the chatroom on bSpace. If you post a link, be sure to contextualize it and make a connection to issues we are studying in the course.

COURSE FORMAT AND POLICIES

Readings: Readings should be completed prior to class. You must keep up with the readings to participate in class and section discussions. Bring your reading materials to every class; you will likely need to refer to them. Assigned readings (aside from the required books) are available on bSpace. Be sure to download them early.
Participation: This class will incorporate the use of lecture, films, music, visuals, and group discussions. I expect you to be an active participant in the course. Bring your questions and comments to class and don't be shy about bringing them up.

You can also participate by posting links to news stories or videos, as well as any relevant thoughts on issues related to the class in the chat room on bSpace. Be sure to contextualize any posts by connecting them to the class.

If you have a question about the readings, lecture, etc., please post your question to the chat room on bSpace where both your questions and my answers will be visible to other students, rather than e-mailing me. Feel free to answer each other’s questions as well.

If you miss a class, do not ask me if you missed anything. Of course you did!--but don’t expect me to fill you in. I suggest sharing contact information with a classmate early on in the semester and getting the notes you missed.

Do not read, listen to music, browse the web, text, or sleep during class. If you want to do these things, don’t bother coming to class.

This course challenges many taken-for-granted assumptions about the social world. Keep in mind that your personal experiences may not match the general sociological insights discussed in the course. This does not negate the insights. Ask yourself why this might be the case. You may not agree with everything we read and discuss, but I expect you to have an open mind and demonstrate your knowledge of the sociological perspective. Disagreements and debates are expected and welcome in this class; however, I will not tolerate personal attacks.

Email: Please clearly indicate to which class you are referring in your emails to me. I endeavor to respond to emails within 24 hours, but this is not always possible; please be patient.

GRADING POLICIES

For assignments turned in via bSpace, your feedback can be found in a file there. Be sure to download this file and carefully consider the feedback. This feedback is provided to help you improve on future assignments.

Re-grades: If you would like to request a re-grade or re-evaluation of an assignment, you must first, wait 24 hours after the assignment was returned and second, write up a statement detailing why you believe you deserve a higher grade. This statement should be about the substance of your work, not about effort. My assessment and grade of your work will be used, even if that means you get a lower score than originally given for that work.

This class is not an “easy A” class. You can expect to work hard in this course and you must earn an A grade.
ACADEMIC DISHONESTY

Academic dishonesty includes cheating and plagiarism. Cheating is collaboration with other students on response papers or on exams or using notes during exams. Plagiarism includes turning in any work that is not your own as well as improper or missing citations of others' works. As a student of the University of California, you are bound by the Code of Academic Conduct. Any cases of cheating or plagiarism will result in a referral to The Center for Student Conduct and a zero for that assignment.

Plagiarism is most likely to occur because students are unaware of how to cite their sources or because they feel desperate. If you get to this point in your writing, contact me ASAP rather than doing something you'll very likely regret.

OFFICE HOURS

If you are having any difficulties with the material or assignments for the course or if you are having any personal problems that are affecting your ability to complete assignments on time, you should take advantage of office hours immediately. I will be much more amenable to granting extensions when I have been made aware of problems early on rather than at the last minute.

Remember that office hours are an important resource if for no other reason than getting to know your instructors could help you in the future when you may need letters of recommendation.
