Course Description
This course will examine major elements in the complex relationship between families and larger social forces. Rather than assuming a universal model of the family (sometimes seen as the “building block” of society) we will look at families as diverse social entities that are supported or constrained by economic factors, public policies, gender ideologies, racial hierarchies, sexual norms and cultural changes—including those brought through immigration. Once we understand how forces of social inequality play out within families in general, we can better understand the dynamics within individual families. With insights into social and institutional influences on American families, we consider a variety of political, economic and cultural reforms that would truly support families in their diverse forms.

Course Goals
1) to better understand the social forces that have shaped American family life;
2) to appreciate the impact of social policies on family stability and instability;
3) to increase awareness of family dynamics as they affect personal life;
4) to approach personal family-related decisions with enhanced critical and creative skills;
5) to value sociology as a tool to illuminate the social elements within “private” spheres of life.

Required texts
This course has three required texts and one required course reader as follows:
1) Sharon Hays, FLAT BROKE WITH CHILDREN
2) Arlie Hochschild, THE SECOND SHIFT
3) Brigid Schulte, OVERWHELMED
4) Course reader available at Krishna Copy at 2595 Telegraph Ave. near the corner of Parker Street. All articles including recommended readings are included in the course reader.

Note: the three books have also been placed on reserve in Moffitt Library, but you must buy a course reader.

Grades
Grading will be based on the completion of the following assignments:
1) 20% There will be five (5) quizzes. Each quiz will be announced in class and you will have 24 hours to take the quiz on B-course. The average of your four (4) best quiz grades will be used to calculate your final quiz score.
2) 30% There will be two take home essays (midterm exams) each worth 15% of your grade. All essays will be submitted electronically to the Assignments section on B-course.
3) 5% Submission of draft of final project (description to follow). Drafts will receive comments but no grade other than credit/no credit to acknowledge submission of a serious attempt to start your final project. There will be no extensions granted.
4) 35% Final project based on investigation into and reflection on how different forms of social inequality (class, race, gender) affected your family life as well as the quality of life within your home community (6-7 pages). All essays will be submitted electronically to the Assignments section on B-course. There is no final exam in Soc. 111AC.

5) 10% Attendance and participation—participation includes:
   a) participation in class as demonstrated by answering i-clicker questions (5%)
   b) at least 1 post (either new posts or responses to classmates’ comments) per module on the Discussion Board for a total of 5 posts (5%)

Note: I will post power point lectures after class only if at least 85% of the class has participated in class by answering i-clicker questions!

6) Extra credit: Students may earn up to 2 points of extra credit by
   a) reading and writing a review of any book on the Supplemental Reading list or other books on the family subject to my approval (2 points);
   b) writing a “drive-by ethnography” (2 points)

Extra credit assignments may be turned in to the assignment section (under Extra Credit) on b-course through May 9

See Appendix A at the end of the syllabus for further explanation of extra credit options.

Grading Scale
Your assignments will be given a numeric score and posted on the B-course Grade Book. At the end of the semester, your scores will be totaled and converted to a letter grade based on the scale: given below. Please note that points are not “rounded up” (or down).

ALL STUDENT PAPERS SUBMITTED ON B-COURSE WILL BE SCREENED FOR PLAGIARIZED SOURCES VIA “TURNITIN”

University policy on cheating or plagiarism (from 2017 On-line Course Catalog) Achievement and proficiency in subject matter include your realization that neither is to be achieved by cheating. An instructor has the right to give you an F on a single assignment produced by cheating without determining whether you have a passing knowledge of the relevant factual material. That is an appropriate academic evaluation for a failure to understand or abide by the basic rules of academic study and inquiry. An instructor has the right to assign a final grade of F for the course if you plagiarized a paper for a portion of the course, even if you have successfully and, presumably, honestly passed the remaining portion of the course. It must be understood that any student who knowingly aids in plagiarism or other cheating, e.g., allowing another student to copy a paper or examination question, is as guilty as the cheating student.

May 10 Final Essay due
    Submit electronically to Assignment section on B-coursse.

Appendix A: Extra Credit Guidelines
All extra credit assignments are due by or before May 9. Submit extra credit to the Assignments section on b-course (look for the Extra Credit section). You may earn up to 2 points of extra credit.

Option A: Drive-by Ethnography (2 points)
   This assignment should be 2 – 3 pages (double-spaced) in length and should address some of the issues discussed below. Think about doing this project with one or two other people. Ride a bus line that travels between poorer and wealthier neighborhoods. I would suggest, for example, that you ride the #18 bus from Berkeley BART east to its final stop in the Montclair district of Oakland, but any bus route that goes from the “flatlands” to the “hills” or through poorer and richer areas would be fine. What can you tell about the neighborhoods you go through? Are there differences in the type and quality of housing? How would you describe the landscaping of the neighborhood, (e.g., do you see a lot of cement or greenery, is there litter in the streets, are there places for kids to play)? Is there evidence of attention to home and building maintenance or do you see “run-down” places? What kind of stores do you see (e.g., liquor stores or wine shops)? What do you notice in terms of changes in riders? How would you describe the people you see outside the bus? What significance do you attach to these differences between neighborhoods? On what basis did you conclude that a neighborhood was richer or poorer? Write at least two pages (double-spaced) describing your bus trip with details about what you noticed about the different neighborhoods. What would it be like to raise kids in the poorest and richest neighborhoods that you observed?

Option B: Book Review (2 points)
Write a 2 - 3 page (double-spaced) review of one of the books on the Supplemental Readings list or any other book that you think is a good match for this class. Your review should include answers to the following questions:
1) What is the main issue addressed by this book?
2) What is the main argument (or central thesis) put forth by this book?
3) What do you think is the book’s most important empirical and/or theoretical claim?
4) How does this book relate to the material read and discussed in class?
5) (optional) Do you see any weaknesses in the book or are there any questions that you would like to ask the author?

SUPPLEMENTAL READING LIST
The following books have been placed on 1-day reserve in Moffitt Library:
3. Alice Goffman, ON THE RUN HV9956.P53 G64 2014
